in no more time greg delanty offers a celebration of the natural environment that also bemoans its mistreatment at the hands of humans the collection s long sequence a field guide to people is an alpha bestiary of twenty six sonnets each a meditation on a species of flora or fauna that is thriving endangered or extinct evoking an earthly heaven purgatory and hell for plants and animals these poems function also as love letters to the biosphere as they connect the past with the present in both form and content in the middle of this sonnet sequence a section labeled breaking news gives voice in poetry to the political state of our planet with a balance of pathos wit and hope delanty stresses the deep underlying connections within and between the natural world and humankind rather than the fragmented world stressed at the beginning of the twentieth century no more time witnesses the effects of climate change and presents a vital view of what remains at stake for engaged global citizens in the twenty first century faith is breathing in the oxygen of god s grace giving life to my once dead heart paul david tripp as breath is to the body so faith is to the christian life through 40 daily meditations from his best selling devotional new morning mercies popular author and speaker paul david tripp explores how deep seated trust in god and his word radically alters not only the way we think but also the way we live tripp urges us not to rely on our own wisdom experience and strength but to ask god to transform us into people who live by faith with a radical god centered point of view flexible families examines the struggles among nicaraguan migrants in costa rica and their families back in nicaragua to maintain a sense of family across borders the book is based on more than twenty four months of ethnographic fieldwork in costa rica and nicaragua between 2009 and 2012 and more than ten years of engagement with nicaraguan migrant communities author caitlin fouratt finds that migration and family intersect as sites for triaging inequality economic crisis and a lack of state provided social services the book situates transnational families in an analysis of the history of unstable family life in nicaragua due to decades of war and economic crisis rather than in the migration process itself which is often blamed for family breakdown in public discourse fouratt argues that the kinds of family configurations often seen as problematic consequences of migration specifically single mothers absent fathers and grandmother caregivers represent flexible family configurations that have enabled nicaraguan families to survive the chronic crises of the past decades by examining the work that goes into forging and sustaining transnational kinship the book argues for a rethinking of national belonging and discourses of solidarity in parallel the book critically examines conditions in costa rica especially the ways the instabilities and inequalities that have haunted the rest of the region have begun to take shape there resulting in perceptions of increased crime rates and a declining quality of life by linking this crisis of costa rican exceptionalism to recent immigration reform the book also builds on scholarship about the production and experiences of immigrant exclusion flexible families offers insight into the impacts of increasingly restrictive immigration policies in the everyday lives of transnational families within the developing world visual information is everywhere we are constantly immersed in a flow of visual data that reshapes our social and inner world companies and individuals are competing to conquer the public's scarce attention by inventing distinctive visual formats to stand out from the crowd how can designers inventors and product managers create designs that are quick to process as well as meaningful unique and memorable in an age characterized by constant information overload the answer is to think aesthetically research insights at the intersection between cognitive science and art studies demonstrate that our minds can effectively process visual complexity by using aesthetic pleasure and judgement as a guide analysing the work of great artists and designers from the perspective of how our mind appreciates beauty elegant design identifies actionable aesthetic strategies that will help you to design products and user experiences that are useful beautiful and meaningful the question of what constitutes an armed conflict has featured prominently in international law debates however international lawyers have paid less attention to the inextricable question of who is engaged in a conflict focusing solely on whether there is an armed conflict against this backdrop alexander wentker's party status to armed conflict in international law explores why it matters and how it is established that a state international organization or armed group is a party to an armed conflict the first part of the book demonstrates that party status is central at all levels of the international legal regulation of armed conflicts with parties to armed conflict being both key addressees of international law and central reference points for regulating individuals and third parties in response to increasingly widespread cooperation practices the book's second part advances an analytical framework for identifying parties to conflicts with multiple parties on the same side or co-parties party status to armed conflict in international law is aimed at academics students and practitioners seeking to understand how armed conflicts are legally regulated it presents readers with a refined account of how responsibilities are allocated in armed conflicts enabling deeper insight into how international law can best respond to the realities of contemporary conflicts
